Exam
The exam assignment description can be found as an assignment on Absalon, under the name "Python Programming for Data Science, Exam 2021" (available in the same way as the weekly handins).

All necessary files to do the exam are included in the exam.zip file attached here. The idea is that you work with this file just as you have done with the handins: unpack the zip file, change directory to the "exam" directory that it creates, and put your code in the empty exam.py and exam_test.py files. When you are done, compress the directory again using zip, and submit this zip file to Digital exam.
